FROM THE BOARD ROOM

I would like to wish our visitors from Hornchurch a warm welcome and hope that your return journey is a safe one.

Today's game has grown in significance following our last 2 results. I'm a realist and we are still staring down the barrel but the last week has proved we are still fighting and will continue to do so.

Last Saturday was needed for all of us and particularly those of you that attended the game, whatever our outcome is we must keep battling and working hard.

Tuesday at Truro was an excellent point, a rather unfortunate decision resulting in a penalty against us, on another day we could have come away with 3 priceless points. I'm not going to knock the officials it's a thankless task and they give what they see.

Hopefully today our much loved kitman Lloyd will be in the stands as he recovers from a serious operation. Lloyd epitomises everything that is good about this football club. He is one of the unsung hero's who goes above and beyond time and time again. We have missed his presence around the place so having him today (hopefully) will lift everybody. On that note I must thank Joe 'Mad Dog' Thomas and Claire Pavey who have stood in for Lloyd in his absence, again to people that have so much passion for the club.

Warren missed Tuesday night due to illness but is back with us today and will be driving the lads on as we go into battle again.

As many of you will have seen the National League are pushing hard for 3 promotion places. I know that seems a million miles away for us but as members we are required to support the campaign. Hopefully they achieve their goal as it is long over due.

Let's get behind the boys today and really make the difference.

Paul

MATCHDAY HOSPITALITY

FROM THE DUG OUT

I would like to wish Hornchurch's manger Daryl McMahon, his staff, players and Board a very warm welcome to Weymouth Football Club.

Also, I would like to thank all the travelling fans that made the long trip to Truro on Tuesday, it was a great point on the back of a fantastic victory last Saturday against Aveley. I was devastated to miss the game on Tuesday, but I was very ill and couldn't make the journey, it's not like me to miss games. I'm also very pleased that when I spoke to the referee the following day he held his hands up and admitted to me that it wasn't a penalty kick and he'd got it wrong, we'll take the positive of four good points from two tough games.

Moving on to today, there's still a lot of football to be played, we want all your support from now until the end of the season. Let's hope miracles can happen and I'd like to wish you all the best and hope we can get 3 points.

FROM THE SA

PETE NASH

Good afternoon everyone. I would like to offer a warm Weymouth welcome to officials, staff and players of Hornchurch, hope they enjoy their brief stay at The Bob Lucas Stadium and wish them safe travels.

Another positive result today would help to put a bit of pressure on the teams above us. There is no getting away from the fact we are a long way adrift, but the fight and determination the lads have shown in the last couple of games has helped to lift the mood around the place. The travelling support on Tuesday to Truro was incredible, credit to you all for making the effort. It just goes to show what this club means to the fans. As Jason said post match, if we're going down, lets go down fighting!

The dwindling home support is the product of our own making, in that home performances have simply not been good enough, I get that. That said, if you are staying away as a consequence of our poor home run, your stance is only harming the club. I read and hear the moans about the price of entry, but sadly, those complaining simply don't listen or don't want to hear our honest statement about the bulk of our income coming from those paying on the turnstiles! It's a fact, and no amount of angst on social media is going to change that fact, certainly not in the short term. So please, encourage all your stay away friends to think again and get behind the club, because the value of your support cannot be overstated.

Before I go, I'm sure most of you know, Lloyd our kit man is out of action whilst recovering from major surgery. Best wishes Lloyd from us all for a speedy recovery and please get back to us sooner rather than later. A massive thank you goes to Joe 'Mad Dog' Thomas for stepping in as kit man for the squad. Thank you to everyone who has also helped, I know there are a number of you, it is very much appreciated and just goes to show the sense of camaraderie there is around the club.

Enjoy the game today and get behind the lads who really appreciate your support. As ever, thanks for reading. Best wishes to you all and thank you for your continued support.

Pete

INTRODUCING OUR MAN OF THE MATCH SPONSOR

Kane and Reg

We have both followed 'The Terras' for a number of years now and love every minute of it (almost)!

Home or away we really enjoy turning up to cheer the lads on.

We've had many ups and downs along the way, including two promotions and a relegation, not forgetting that amazing final week a couple of seasons ago when we managed to pull off 'The Great Escape'.

This season has obviously been a tough one for all involved, but hopefully we can take a win and all three points today.

If all else fails however, we'll just 'Have Another Lager!!!'

Played for both teams...a selection...

JACKSON, Kirk SALIFU, Fareed
PURSER, Wayne WEATHERSTONE, Simon

Only four games in our history against today's opponents but many would argue that it is really just two as the first couple of fixtures were against the side that folded in 2005. Those initial meetings were both in the inaugural Conference South season in 2004/05. In that campaign Hornchurch filled two of our "holiday" fixtures. Firstly we visited Essex on August Bank Holiday Monday when player-manager Steve Claridge scored but it was to no avail as the hosts took all three points in a 2-1 win.

Fast forward to Easter Monday at the Bob Lucas Stadium and it was a new man at the Terras helm in the shape of Garry Hill who had left as Hornchurch manager just two months before. Despite leading them to the top of the table at the turn of the year he was forced to leave his post when the club went into administration and the Terras secured his services. He had more luck against his former club as Kirk Jackson and an own goal secured a 2-0 victory that helped us to ultimately finish 7th in that first season in this division. Conversely Hornchurch finished 17th following a 10 point deduction but that proved to just be the precursor for their disbanding that summer.

Our only other tussle against the Urchins before this season was in the 2008/09 FA Cup final qualifying round. The Terras were hot favourites to progress to the 1st round proper, playing at home against the phoenix side plying their trade two steps below in the football pyramid. Stuart Beavon ensured we lived up to these expectations early doors with a ninth minute strike but the game started to unravel in the second half. Just two minutes after the restart and the Essex side had equalised before the killer blow came in the 90th minute as Weymouth fell behind for the first time. Hornchurch's prize for reaching the "proper" rounds of the cup was a plum home tie against football league Peterborough United, a game they only lost by a single goal.

This season we visited Hornchurch in the league back in November when both clubs were in similar positions at the wrong end of the table. In a fairly even encounter it was the newly promoted side who took all the spoils though, an early goal from Wraight in the end proving the difference on the day.

Of the players that have featured for both sides, at least two followed manager Garry Hill – Purser & Weatherstone.

Goody, 5th season in claret and blue, you've gone on and hit 100 goals for the club too, more now, although it's not been a season of success for the club, how does it feel on a personal level to achieve that. (Including your 200 appearances)?

Yeah, it's obviously a really good feeling and one I was chasing last season, I felt like I had quite a good season last year. I was out of the team for a period last year which was tough to take, but got myself back into the team and in form and I'd like to think helped the team climb the table a bit. It means a lot to me, Weymouth's a club that's shown me a lot of faith and I'd like to think that I've shown the club and fans and everyone associated with the club that it means a lot to me. Giving hopefully a few more good times than I have bad. I knows it's easy to forget the good times. Even as a player I forget the good times when we are struggling but you know what it's sometimes good to reflect back and look at what I've done because it fills me with pride, performing at this club.

You've obviously got a strong bond with the fans, seasons like this must be hard, but there's still time, as a player do you focus on the table much or is it a case of fight and take a game at a time?

To be honest with you, in my first stint at the club I looked at the table after every single result. Pretty much as soon as I got back in the changing room, seeing how far into the play-offs we were or at the top and things like that. If I'm being completely honest I've tried to avoid looking recently apart from the Truro game Tuesday night as someone mentioned we were off the bottom. The reason I don't look much this season for example is because it hurts me to see where we are. It hurts, I know it's easy to say that, but I find it embarrassing as a player. The club, the fans, the people around the club deserve so much more than where we are. I would definitely say it's a case of in the last two, three months it's been take each game as it comes, try get a win on the board. So the games we've won, Welling and Aveley, I still didn't look at the table after those, it was just a case of onto the next one. For the reasons I've said it's hard to look at. Of course Truro was a change in that when we climbed off the bottom and sometimes it's good to look at those moments because you're not as far off it as you think. Football is a funny game, it can change so quickly and it only takes a few weeks to turn what once looked concrete on its head.

Your career is one that can be admired, where did football start for you?

Football started for me when I was four years old. My dad took me down to a soccer camp local to me in Poole and I never really looked back after that. I had that typical football journey growing up in my teens, I started off playing Sunday league then got scouted for Bournemouth at a young age and grew through the ranks there. My family are certainly to thank for my career though. Me, my dad and brothers would play football in the garden, we'd go watch Dad play on Saturdays. It ignited that love for the game which you can't force someone to have. It's been some journey, one I'm thankful for.

With that, we all have idols growing up, who's as your footballing idol?

My footballing idol growing up, probably a bit obvious being a Newcastle fan, someone who likes to score goals and that's Alan Shearer. Obviously a Geordie and someone I can look up to. My dad's a Newcastle fan so I was stuck in that black and white kit from before I could walk. I love Shearer's enthusiasm to score goals. I would probably say though I'm probably the complete opposite to how he played. The game obviously changed a lot and that old fashioned number 9 breed is dying out abit as you hear people say, but as an idol it has to be him. He scored so many goals for a team I love.

We speak about routines a lot with the lads, talk us through your matchday routine for a Saturday 3pm...

It depends, if I've scored the Saturday before I'll make sure I have the same dinner in the Friday night. I'm really superstitious. I'll wake up at the same time, I'll have the same pre-match. Everything is the same, I'll have the same snack, same drink. I'm very superstitious with things like that. A typical matchday for me though where I've not scored, which has happened more than I'd like this season, I'd wake up about 9:30am, go get some breakfast, usually scrambled eggs and avocado on toast. Get myself set, freshen up, pack my bag and I try to leave around 12pm for 1:30pm meet. It takes me around an hour to get there so I try give myself plenty of time so I don't need to stress. So I can do everything I need to before kick off without rushing.

Like I say I'm

I'm very superstitious, as I say. I started coming out last in my first season at the club, I'd never done that at any other club, and it's just stuck with me since then for the six or so years it's been since then. Likewise though if something happens when I come out second last, third last or something different and score, I then make sure that's the place I come out the next game.

As a non league player it must be difficult balancing job, life and football, do you think this is spoken about enough? What kind of challenges can that pose?

I have been asked this question so many times and I always try to think what else I wanted, but I only ever wanted to be a professional footballer. That was my goal, I never really had any other thought in my mind growing up, going through school I never planned for a back up plan, which on reflection was foolish. Although I've not had the most amazing career and ended up in the premier league, I've still had a career I feel lucky to have enjoyed so far. One I know others would swap with me for who haven't had their chance. I feel lucky and thankful for that. I remember when I was younger, my one goal was to achieve one professional appearance and I've been lucky to do that. This has always been my goal though.

If you weren't to be a footballer, what was your other dream as a kid? I have been asked this question so many times and I always try to think what else I wanted, but I only ever wanted to be a professional footballer. That was my goal, I never really had any other thought in my mind growing up, going through school I never planned for a back up plan, which on reflection was foolish. I remember when I was younger, my one goal was to achieve one professional appearance and I've been lucky to do that. This has always been my goal though.

As we head into the run in, what's your message to the Terras faithful?

I know as well as others how painful it has been this year, and also last year to an extent. The club deserves to be competing higher up the table and we weren't able to do that last year either. My message would be to keep doing what you're doing. Coming out in numbers, singing through the times we need you. Singing in the times we can enjoy and also there's nothing wrong with letting us know when we haven't don't what's expected as a group. This is a big club with a strong heartbeat and Weymouth fans deserve to let us know when they're not happy with us. I think all things considered this season, as always since I put this shirt on for the club for the first time, you've done brilliant. Football can change quickly, we never know what's round the corner keep going.

Woods Words

It was nice to see a good win here at the Bob Lucas Stadium last Saturday.

A relegation six pointer, it was, but to me it didn't really feel that way, only because of the gap between us, Aveley and safety.

But forgetting all of that, I thought we put in a really good performance, scoring goals and not letting conceding an equaliser soon after taking the lead to affect us too much.

I must admit I was a little concerned that we were light on numbers, with the news of some of the players being let go in the run up to the game. As long as we don't get too many injuries, I guess it won't be a problem, although recovery time will be important for matches that are close together. Maybe playing a similar line up most games might help with getting a bit of a run together.

So we moved on to a long trip to Truro City and their new stadium.

After a bit of a nightmare start, conceding a penalty in the first five minutes, it sounded as though again we didn't let the setback affect us and we were well in the game.

In the second half we got an equaliser, with Mal Linton scoring his second goal in two matches.

It's great to see him finding the net again after spending a long time on the side-lines with injury.

It was amusing to hear the Truro fans getting frustrated with Will Buse for slowing the game down and taking his time with goal kicks etc. Most fans get frustrated with time wasting, but how many times have we seen teams do it against us?

Personally I think it is good that we are trying to improve our game management, as this has been a criticism for quite a long time now. It might backfire sometimes, but, as the saying goes if you can't beat 'em join 'em.

So, a very good point was brought back across the Westcountry and the very slight glimmer of hope has appeared down the tunnel. No doubt the light will probably end up being the lights of an oncoming Southern League train but we can but dream.

Let's see what happens today, Hornchurch are on a good run so will be a tough test.

If we manage to get another win on the board come around five o'clock, then maybe we might have a chance, a very long shot, but a chance.

Good luck lads,

'till next time,

Up The Terras!

Terras Women - News

Written by James Spring

Unfortunately our most recent match away to Feniton was abandoned midway through the first half due to a nasty head injury to our player, Ruby Clark. After a long wait for an ambulance and 9 stitches later, she was finally given the all clear and returned home to recover. We wish her all the best and hope to see her back on the field soon!

I'm Tired...

Ben Ashleford

No matter what happens this season, Radio Terras will still exist next season.

I have a few ideas and an ambition to become to best non-league commentary service in non-league football. I want to be better, bigger and, I want to become to gold standard.

My job, the way I see it, is to raise the standards of the service. We get a lot of positive feedback, and it's surprisingly rare to get any negative feedback. People seem to appreciate how much effort we make to bring you live Terras access.

Despite a few people suggesting that we change our philosophy, I am absolutely determined to ensure that the commentary service is always totally free for all.

That doesn't mean that we don't value any donations that get given. But I do not want to open a subscription model. Why would I ever want to fleece the incredible Terras support that have given us the chance to do what we do.

I don't even know where the donations go to be completely honest, certainly not anywhere near me. It can be particularly frustrating at times, especially when I know I need a new mixer and I also know that will fall to me to pay for. That's OK, that's what I signed up for. But I did want to be clear in saying that the donations go to the club and nowhere near the media team.

So, keep an eye on things over the off-season. The service will be changing, improving and full of new features.

We're not going anywhere, but the current guise will change.
